

Application Process

Applications are accepted on a rolling basis.

Requirements

Applicants must have completed a general adult residency in psychiatry and by the time the fellowship begins, must have a California medical license. Please include a photocopy of your California Medical License (required for training). If you do not have a California Medical License, include a statement affirming your eligibility for the license. Please note: it can take up to 6 months to process an application for a California Medical License.

Applicants must either be a US citizen or hold an appropriate visa. Unfortunately, we are not able to accept applications from candidates holding ECFMG-J1 visas or H-1 visas. Fellows will be selected from applicants whose achievements reflect a strong desire to advance the work of public psychiatry in caring for those with complex mental health disorders and an interest in integrating mental health and primary care. Minority applicants are especially encouraged to apply.

International Medical Graduate Applicants: You must have a California medical license at the start of the fellowship program. The process for obtaining a California medical license can be lengthy - we strongly recommend starting the process as early as possible.

How to Apply

To apply, please send a cover letter telling us a little about yourself and your interest in public psychiatry, a CV, and telephone and/or email contact information for three references (no actual letters needed). In your cover letter please indicate if you currently hold a California Medical License and if you are not a US citizen, let us know your visa status. We cannot provide visa assistance to applicants. After reviewing this information, we will arrange interviews. A complete set of training documents will be requested prior to final acceptance.

For applicants interested in the upcoming academic year, please fill out this form [1]. Although we have a rolling admission process, we will begin to accept applications for the next academic year as early as July 1.
